Subject: SAT Online Course Resources for Educators and Students

In the near future, the College Board will be sending out information to districts in regards to the State paid, SAT Online Course, and the steps needed to get all sophomores and juniors signed up. The email communication will include a getting started guide, as well as answers to recent frequently asked questions.

Knowing that your time is limited, I wanted to share with you some quick information in regards to the SAT Online Course and links to counselor, educator, and student resources.

General Information: The SAT Course is an online SAT preparatory/tutorial resource for students, where they can participate in 18 interactive lessons which cover the SAT's critical reading, writing, and mathematics sections. Also included are 10 practice tests. The SAT Online Course was designed with the flexibility to allow educators/schools to decide how the tool can be used; either by integrating it into an existing class, using the course as an independent study tool outside of the school day, or a stand-alone SAT course. For more detailed information, please visit, <http://professionals.collegeboard.com/k-12/prepare/srp/course>

Counselors: Visit the SAT Online Course Toolkit at, <http://satonlinecoursetoolkit.org/>, for case study information and parent/student email and letter templates. You will also find a student letter template that can be used to inform students on the steps to sign-up for the online course. Be sure to add your school's access code to the student template before handing out. Your school's access code was included in the welcome email sent out by the College Board.

Educators: Visit the interactive SAT Online Course Tour at, http://satonlinecoursetoolkit.org/trainingtour/04\_SAT-Online-Course-Overview.html, to view an overview module which instructs educators on how to register as an educator, create classes, assign lessons and quizzes, and reports to monitor your students' progress, either monthly or year-to-date. Multiple educators can enroll the same student in multiple content specific classes.

Educators can also view SAT preparatory lessons that are located in the SAT Online Course Toolkit, <http://satonlinecoursetoolkit.org/>.

Students: Teachers can have students view the interactive SAT Online Course tour, either individually or as a whole group, http://satonlinecoursetoolkit.org/trainingtour/04\_SAT-Online-Course-Overview.html. This will help in guiding students through the sign-up process and to review the preparatory resources within the SAT Online Course. These resources include the following:

- Overview of the Online Course
- Study Calendar
- Pre-Test
- 18 Interactive Lessons

- Detailed overview of each section of the SAT
  - Content review
  - Suggested approaches to handling questions
  - Sample questions
- Practice Quizzes
- 10 Practice Tests
- Reports to review progress

You can also gather additional information on all SAT practice tools and the College Board resources that will help students with college planning, by visiting the SAT Online Course Tour, http://satonlinecoursetoolkit.org/trainingtour/04\_SAT-Online-Course-Overview.html.
